

WANTED

A DIRECTOR FOR THE DEAD MAN WALKING SCHOOL THEATRE PROJECT

To date, 173 universities, colleges and high schools have participated.

Director will collaborate with Tim Robbins, playwright, and Sister Helen Prejean, CSJ, author of “Dead Man Walking,” in this unprecedented endeavor to combine live theater and study to engage students in reflecting on and discussing the death penalty -- a key moral issue of our day. Go to www.dmwplay.org for more information.

The successful candidate will be hands-on in all aspects of the project, including promoting the project to universities and schools, mentoring directors and faculty and raising funds for the project.

Need someone with Catholic sensibilities. Because the Catholic Church recently formulated its vigorous opposition to the death penalty, as exemplified by the U.S. Catholic Bishops' Catholic Campaign to End the Use of the Death Penalty, we will be focusing on Catholic universities and high schools, although the project is offered to all schools in the U.S.

For a copy of the position description, including application instructions, email: mrace@csjoseph.org .

